WORK PROGRESSES FAVORABLY ON TWIN SISTER MINE RICH ORE FOUND

Good reports continue to come from the Twin Sister mine at Snow Point where all speed is being used to complete the No. 3 tunnel by early fall and get the property ready for a large production basis. The chutes and bins are full of fine mill rock which will be handled though the new tunnel when completed as a stamp mill is to be erected at the adit.

Another strike of high grade ore has been opened up in the No. 5 raise from the No. 2 tunnel which shows all the characteristics of the high value arsenical sulphides found in other of the raises and samples of which are on display in The Nugget windows. The strike was picked up previously but was not opened up at the time but recent uncoverage shows a fine shoot of high grade.

Double shifts are to be used in driving the big tunnel ahead to its completion to cut under the rich shoots uncovered in the higher levels

It is estimated that there is about seven months work ahead yet but this may be cut down if the remaining ground turns out favorable for fast work. At present the face is slippery and requires breasting. The tunnel is now in 450 feet and the total distance to be run is slightly in excess of 1000 feet. Good progress is being made in the driving and heavy timbering is being used thoughout to insure permanency. Work has been carried on steadily throughout the winter under Superintendent Dan Powers and there will likely be surprising results from the mill the coming summer.

Peculiar showings are being encountered in the serpentine crossings, the serpentine being highly mineralized which is quite unusual. Both copper and iron sulphrets occur in abundance and can be readily seen with the naked eye. The serpentine formations seem to be ending and a porphyry dike is expected to be encountered in the next 100 to 200 feet which would indicate the presence of ledge matter. It is expected that the face of the tunnel will be in 500 feet by April 1st.

One eminent mining engineer who examined the property stated that in his opinion the Twin Sister had the makings of a second Sixteen to One in point of high values. The property is on the famous Plumbago lode system and the shoots of high grade so far encountered show every indication of persistency at depth.

The property which is under option by the Twin Sister Mining Company from the Hegarty estate, is being operated as a strictly cooperative enterprise, there being no capital overhead or salaries paid to any of the officials aside from a small stipend to the secretary. A permit was recently granted by the state corporation commissioner to sell 200,000 shares of treasury stock having a par value of 25 cents a share. That sum will prove ample to complete the No. 3 tunnel and place the mine ready to go on a large production basis and with the ore already blocked out, there is every reason to expect that this property will prove one of the big dividend payers of the district.

President R. O. Foster of Talmadge made an inspection trip to the property the past week and expressed himself as highly pleased at the showing thus far made.

There are a large number of stockholders in Mendocino and Sonoma counties.

Under the capable management of Mr. Foster excellent progress has been made, a large number of accumulated debts have been cleared up and the company looks to be on a good financial basis to see its development program completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edw. C. Uren, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Leiter went to the city Friday to spend the week-end.

John O'Donnell was down at Livermore ecently to see Frank Downing, who is in the Veteran's Hospital there. O'Donnell returned to the Brush Creek Mine Thursday. He attended Grand Opera in Oakland while in the bay region.

NEVADA BASIN MINES IN COURT THE PAST WEEK

The struggle for the control of the rich Nevada Basin group of mining properties extending for a distance of four miles between the Champion and Banner Mountain has gone through superior court and is now in the hands of Judge Raglan Tuttle for decision. The case came up for hearing on Tuesday and occupied a day in the taking of testimony and arguments.

The defense consisting of the testimony of Charles W. Dow, only, of the Western Mines Consolidated produced in court what puported to be the original note given by the company in the amount of $55,000 to the Banner Mines Consolidated and on which the plaintiffs headed by A R. Archibald bought suit, alleging non-payment as shown by the mortgage. Testimony showed that the original note had been paid through the issuance of a new note for the same amount with a credit of $10,000 to be applied against the final payment and advancing the payment due on March 1st, 1927, sixty days.

Charles Dow who stated that he was financing the operations of the Western Mines took the stand and testified that he had secured the payment of the old note on which the suit was brought through the issuance of the new note although this note was never paid. At the first hearing he had testified that a considerable amount of the principal sum of $55,000 had been paid, which did not appear in the sum named in the second note and on this point there was a lively tilt between counsel.

In the matter of the depositions taken in New York the one by Henry F. Whitney provoked a great deal of controversy and Joseph A. Nickerson, attorney of New York, took the stand and testified that he had not been notified of the taking of that deposition and was not present at the time. The Walmsley and Webster depositions were admitted by both sides as exhibits in the case.

R. F. D. Lemon of New York, a director in the Banner Consolidated, took the stand and testified that he had granted the new note being made out on repesentation that extra time was needed in making payments. He appeared as the transferee of the mortgage from the Empire Trust Company and then assigned it to the Archibald insterests. He testified that no money had been paid on the mortgage or either note and that the only purpose of the new note was to extend the time of the March 1st payment ahead sixty days and to exercise an option to take over 20,000 shares of Western Mines stock on the basis of 50c per share, which amount was to be applied on the final payment to be made on the mortgage. He testified that the new note had been delivered to Mr. Archibald.

At this point both sides rested and the case was submitted without further argument to Judge Tuttle and his decision is expected at an early date.

The Archibald interests, who have the New England property, state that the other properties in the Nevada Basin are assential to their plans for large development amply financed and that they are ready to proceed as soon as the legal preliminaries are out of the way. The Western Mines headed by A. D. Foote of Grass Valley for the Dow interests have had the Nevada Basin plan under way for several years, looking toward operation through the Banner properties and later running a four mile drain tunnel from the Providence property.

The outcome of the suit will be watched with a great deal of interest as the properties involved represent the largest practically undeveloped gold belt of known richness anywhere in the world today.

W. E. Wright appeared as attorney for the plaintiffs and E. H. Armstrong and Duke Stone, the latte of Los Angeles, for the defendants.

Miles D. Coughlin is the new Scout Master and Arnold Murchie, assistant for the Nevada City Boy Scouts.

RUDELL BROTHERS OPEN DUTCH FLAT PROPERTY

Rudell Brothers of Oakland, real estate firm, are planning on operating their mining property several miles west of Emigant Gap, this spring. The Rudells have owned the property for ten years past. It is equipped with milling facilities.

NEW MOHAWK MILL IS HANDLING FINE CLEANUP

The New Mohawk mill at Gold Flat under lease to W. A. Sharp is continuing its good cleanups. About three tons of rock per day are handled on an average and the cleanup for the week ending March 17th was $898 while the cleanup for the past week was $1149.

The development work is showing some fine rock which gives the appearance of persistency at depth.

RISING SUN TUNNEL IS NOW IN 2160 FEET

The Rising Sun drain tunnel from Bear River is now being driven along a branch of the main vein showing 16 inches of quartz and should reach the main vein within the next few days. This tunnel has been driven so far through 2160 feet of extremely hard rock. After reaching the main vein the drift will be driven 300 feet further to connect with the stopes between the 500 and 600 levels of the old mine. It will be perhaps three months yet before the property can be unwatered through this tunnel. Manager E. C. Klinker is in San Francisco undergoing medical treatment, but is expected to return to the mine this week.

JUDGE ANNOUNCES NEW SYSTEM FOR JURY FEES

Judge Raglan Tuttle threw a little diversion into the routine calendar day this morning when he announced that he expected to install the system shortly of requiring a deposit of the jury fees and a pro-rata of the reporter's fees when a jury trial is demanded, by side demanding same. Another matter is that trial jury must be demanded at time of setting case for trial, otherwise jury is waived.

Commencing in May it is expected that the calendar will be the 1st and 3d Fridays in place of the present Monday dates.

POLITICS WARM UP WITH SEVEN CANDIDATES UP

Some one who thought it would be necessary to draft several of our citizens to run for the three city trustee jobs soon to be vacated, had a bad hunch, as there were seven nominating petitions filed by last Tuesday noon, the closing date. The aspirants are Louis W. Kopp, James Penrose, Al Seaman, Wade J. Armstrong, Benj. Hall, C. R. Murchie A. H. Haddy who will contest on the 9th. This is the best showing of candidates in some years and promises a growing interest in things municipal.

Also appearing on the ballot will be the proposal to place the trustees on a salary basis and place Nevada City out of the donation class. The amount involved if the proposal carries is but a mere pittance but will place our city on a par with other communities of like size. The movement is sponsored by nearly every business man of Nevada City which speaks for its stability.

LABORER FINDS DIME OF THE VINTAGE OF 1870

While digging the pits for the peddystones in the flume structure for the new diversion ditch from Deer creek last week, J. Duffy found a dime of the vintage of 1870 and he has been looking for some numismatic fiend to tell him the value of his find. While digging, an old mine tunnel was cut into. The tunnel had been bulkheaded with rocks and the dime was found lying in the rocks. It has the customary front but the back has three bars on it.

PALM SUNDAY DESCRIBED BY FATHER O'REILLY

Next Sunday will be Palm Sunday and the first day of Holy week. The principal ceremonies of the day are the blessing of the palm or olive branches the, procession, and the singing of the Passion wherever feasible. The Passion is sung next Sunday, therefore, only in Catholic cathedrals and chapels in seminaries the only places where the required number of clergy is available. The chanting is done by three deacons, one chanting the Gospel narrative, one, the words of Christ and the third, the sayings of Pilate, Caiphas, and the others who took part in the death sentence pronounced against the Savior. The history of the Passion thus sung takes in all of the twenty sixth and twenty seventh chapters of Matthew. It takes about two hours for the singing, but its beauty makes those privileged to hear it forget how long they stand listening.

Briefly, Palm Sunday records the truimphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem on the noted occosion when the people broke branches from the palm trees and strewed them His path and cried out! "Blessed is He that cometh in the nams of the Lord."

STORM HIGHLIGHTS

Colgate Power House flooded to a depth of three feet yesterday.

3000 feet of Colgate flume reported out.

Narrow Guage washed out.

Contractor loses lumber and tools at Deer Creek dam.

Lumber for Mosquito Creek camp washed away.

Deer Creek highest in many years.

Snowpack at Summit hit by rain.

Sacramento floodgates opened to save city from threatened inundation.

Slide at Indian Hill blocks Downieville Highway for several days.

Yuba River highest at Downieville in 35 years.

Travel is closed between Downieville and Sierra City by washing out of Lady's Canyon bridge.

In one of the wildest storms to visit the coast in many years, this part of California has been given a thorough drenching the past few days and the various streams have been on a wild rampage.

Deer creek early yesterday was at the 8 foot mark at the Plaza and had been running high all yesterday. The contractor on the diversion dam suffered the loss of much lumber and tools which went down the creek. The Davises who last year purchased a portion of the Ayer holdings on Mosquito creek suffered the loss of lumber with which they were planning to erect cabins on their property.

Colgate power house on the Yuba river was reported under three feet of water yesterday and was closed down. It was reported here that 3000 feet of flume had gone out in the high water. Bullards Bar Dam was running full over the top. The footbridge over the Middle Yuba between North San Juan and the Colgate power house which is normally about 30 feet above water was but 3 or 4 feet above the flood and power company employes who crossed it went across on their horizontals.

The Narrow Guage tracks were washed out in the vicinity of Peardale and the afternoon and evening trains were cancelled. General Manager Calanan went over in his machine and brought in the evening mail from Colfax. The early train went out this morning but the track is reported shaky.

The warmth of the storm is likely to raise havoc with the snow pack in the higher altitudes as it was raining as high up as the 7000 foot altitude and there was rain at the Summit. The flood weir gates at Sacramento were opened yesterday to use the Yolo bypass and protect the city. Bear river was on a big rampage.

The rainfall as shown by the gauge kept by Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Preston shows 3.73 inches of rainfall between 4 p. m. Saturday and 4 p. m. yesterday while 1½ inches fell between midnight and this morning.

The bridge on the Fairview mine road this side of Washington went out yesterday as did the bridge at the Yuba mine. The bridge over the South Yuba above Washington on the Gaston road is reported unsafe for travel and in danger.

The state highway to Downiville is blocked by a big slide at Indian Hill above Joubert which it will take a couple of days to ermove. Postmaster P. G. Scadden sent a special stage piloted by Lloyd Hiscox this morning to take the mail to that point where the Fischer mail stage is held up. The Nugget up country mailing list went out on the special through the kindness of Mr. Scadden.

The Yuba Pass Highway is blocked to travel between Downieville and Sierra City when the Lady's Canyon bridge was washed out.

Travel out of Sacramento this way is being detoured by way of Florin and Folsom owing to the high water in North Sacramento.

The Yuba river is the highest at Downieville that it has been in 35 years and the residents on the lowlands are taking to higher ground.

Little trouble to the phone lines is reported.

OWNERS GET COLD FEET

Mines close down and many people wonder why. It is known that the ore reserves are not exhausted and that development work would bring big dividends, yet the machinery is allowed to rust, is sold or stolen, the buildings fall down, and what was once a good paying property becomes a relic, an eyesore and a total loss to the community. The Oakland Tribune in The Knave's column of some time ago appeared the following:

"Bodie and bullion! Bodie and the gold rush, and Mark Twain! Those buildings which housed the pushing crowds, where met the Miners' Union, and where sang and danced the reckless, are there now facing rotting sidewalks. Bodie which made itself known by mere force of wealth is now shoved back into the Sierra. Where once were 10,000 are now but sixty. Winds rattle loose boards and the streets are deserted, but the sixty, loving the story, held by the lure, and believing that history will repeat, hold on. The story that is told up in the country of the Cottonwood Canyon north of Mono Lake, is that Bodie did not die of poverty. It was not mined out, but flooded. The workings filled with water, but the gold did not give iut. On the strength of this belief is based the prediction that Bodie will come back and there are even now in consideation, plans to drain the entire mountain on which the ghost city is built and reopen the mines of the olden days. If this is done Bodie once more will be a place of boom and bullion. Fifty millions were taken out of the place in the old days and if you ask any of the sixty who are left, that was but a drop in the bucket.

"Bodie closed down and what was once a prosperous camp was deserted by all but a few. And hwy? Because the owners got cold feet. In the palmy days, when the stock gamblers ruled the town, the Lent shaft was sunk a thousand feet, big pumps installed and all the mines drained and worked from the one shaft. One day it was a strike in the Mono and the stock soared. A week later a strike was reported in the Standard, Mono slumped and Standard went up. Finally, the public failed to bite and the stock gamblers quit. Pumps were pulled and the town became quiet. Then the Standard Consolidated absorbed all its neighbors and with an electric plant at Green Creek the new company paid dividends, but all the gold was taken from above the 600 level. When that was exhausted one superintendent after another called for pumps and more machinery and the men who had received about $12,000,000 in dividends wouldn't come across for more equipment and mine closed down. This ground had been explored to a depth of a thousand feet and yet the stockholders would not supply funds to dig out that 400 feet of ore. And history repeats itself in nearly every camp in the West."

What the Tribune writer has said is true of many districts in California. The Nevada City district, admittedly having the richest potential gold resources of any district in California for some years up to this spring had the earmarks of a deserted camp. The closing down of the Champion which had in its heyday produced nearly thirty millions of golden treasure seemed to seal the doom of the camp. But it was not so and the Nevada City district is at this time coming back stronger than ever. Money for development is now being made available due to the numerous strikes of rich ore that have been made the past year. With the famous old Murchie nearly ready for unwatering and a large development program mapped out, the Western Merger putting its new stamp mill in commission in the next few weeks, the completion this fall of the large tunnel being run at the Twin Sister property at Snow Point opening up what well versed men predict will develop into a second Sixteen to One in point of rich ore deposits, the German Bar, Alleghany-El Dorado, Brush Creek and Pilot properties in the upper country going onto a production basis this spring, and with the Sierra City field opening up with a number of properties, there is no doubt but that this section of California is coming back with a vengeance. The New Mohawk in the Gold Flat district has been on a production basis for some weeks.

The reincarnation of the famous old Idaho Maryland will prove one of the romantic tales of Nevada county's golden history ere many months pass, is The Nugget's prediction. For a mine that was popularly reputed to have been played out after $28,000,000 had been taken from its rich stopes, it has had the amazing faculty of producing an entirely new ore shoot that has all the earmarks of a bonanza lode.

There has been nothing wrong with Nevada and Sierra counties during gold mining's lean years and now that the investing public is now looking once more for likely looking properties to develop, there need be no worries for the future of these two counties.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED AT THE CLERKIN HOME

FRENCH CORRAL, March 24, (Special to The Nugget)— About 4 o'clock Tuesday a. m. was heard the most welcome patter of the "rain upon the oof." A rainy day followed and by night it was certainly doing its best in the real old fashioned way and every one was glad.

Let's see what we have for The Nugget this time,—

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Buhl and family and Mr. Chris Buhl of Brown's Valley were week's end guests of their friends, W. C. and Miss Millie Clerkin.

Bill McCullough is home for a short visit. Bill never forgets to visit French Corral and his many friends here are always glad to see him.

The night of the 17th was celebrated by a most enjoyable birthday party at the Clerkin home, at which thity guests were present. The rooms were beautifully decorated, "the wearin of the green" being the leading color of course. The evening was spent in card playing and listening to the radio. At midnight a most sumptuous supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Clerkin are the best of hosts and spare no pains in entertaining their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McNamara of Tyler visited relatives in French Corral Sunday.

Mrs. K. Broules and family were Sunday visitors from Sacramento.

A special meeting of the S. J. W. U. A. was called for Sunday afternoon. The meeting was well attended and much business transacted.

Mrs. J. W. Culver was a visitor in Grass Valley this week.

Miss Millie Clerkin has gone to Loomis for a visit with friends.

TOURISTS HEADING UP CAMPTONVILLE WAY

CAMPTONVILLE, Mar. 24 (Special to The Nugget)—The few days of spring weather have brought the tourists and city people to the mountains in considerable numbers. The present travel consists of a wide variety of people including travelers from the east who have come over the Yuba Pass.

Saturday evening a group of four high school teachers from Stockton motored in, having been at Auburn the night before. They were enjoying an outing, cooking supper a la nature out of doors, frying bacon and eggs on a hot rock. They enjoyed the evening out in the air and beneath the stars, spending the rest of the night at the Hotel Francis, and voting this a very desirable place for an outing.

As springtime brings out the butterflies, grasshoppers and lady bugs so it brings out those who are in search of those insects. It has become quite common to find people bug hunting, most of whom are orchardists of the Sacramento Valley, looking for lady bugs for their orchards These insects are shipped out by parcel post to orchards in the valley.

A large amount of travel and tourists are looked for the coming season. The Yuba Pass and Yuba river country are becoming better known each year and this beautifully scenic route is being chosen by many.

GOLD RENAISSANCE

By Belle McCord Roberts

So enormous was the easily acquired wealth of the section, especially embracing the counties of Sierra, Nevada, Placer, El Dorado, Amador, Calaveras, Tuolumne and Mariposa, that phenomenal findings were the order of the day. At Carson's Creek, Calaveras county, as high as $110,000 was taken out of the rock from a single blasting in what became afterward known as Morgan's mine. (It is to be noted that this mine sold to a syndicate within the last few months for the reported sum of $600,000.)

Angel's Camp specimens, analyzed in England assayed $35,000 per ton Gold Hill on the Feather River proved to be one of richest quartz veins ever known. At Springfield, a Mexican lady refugee, Dona Josefa Valmseda, took out a claim, the dirt from which, hauled to the nearest smelter made as high as $1,000 per cart load. It must be bourne in mind that in order to pay for mining and smelting the values must have run high in those days, when the price of transporting by the slow methods then in vogue often averaged the sum of $20.00 per load of $2000 pounds.

We have just been noting particularly the mines in the Northern section, of which Grass Valley and Nevada City were the center in ranking importance for both value and permanency.

But the southern section was not behind hand. Sonora was the largest and most famous section. And it is probably now time to enquire what was the distribution of this fabulously rich gold-bearing section, and from whence it come?

Two districts furnished the phenomenonal wealth which made California the magnet which attracted citizens, often of the highest type for enterprise and learning, from all parts of the civilized world. For we must now turn from the placer stage of the industry to the wealth which lies under the surface, harder of access, and naturally later in being developed.

Since 1840 California mines have produced the stupendous sum of $1,735,802,000 in gold. Of this amount $1,346,602,399 came from placer mines. In the forty years between1848 and 1888 California produced $1,174,713,329, of which amount nine-tenths, or $1,057,241,996 came from the gravels, and one-tenth came from the lode mines. Now note the change.

Since 1888 the state has produced $678,720,906 in gold, of which the placers or gravels have produced but 50 per cent, and the lodes, or deep mining, an equal amount. It is the ather logical conclusion of the best engineers that there still lies buried under the hills more hidden treasure than has ever been uncovered in California since the hectic days of the forty-niners until now.

Back then to our distribution.

We have just mentioned the two districts of the gold region, lying between the Feather and Yuba Rivers on the north and the Merced. Toulumne and San Joaquin Rivers on the south. This long stretch of territory was minerally speaking, divided into two groups, called respectively, the Northern and the Southern Mines.

As Httell, in his interesting history of California remarks, it takes but little stretch of the imagination to fancy the Northern mines guarded by the lofty peaks of Mount Shasta, and the Southern mines guarded by the no less lofty and perhaps more dignified Mt. Whitney.

These two mountains, during the volcanic era, belching out a steam of molten lava, overran the country around, cut their way down ravines to form enormous rivers of molten minerals, all heavy with their golden burden and seeking lodgement in which to rest. These liquid masses, under enormous pressure from beneath were oozed and squeezed up between the fissures of igneous rocks or slates, schists, quartz and granite. And there they lie today, subject to the changes which upheavels, pressure and erosion have wrought.

Succeeding centuries covered these auriferous streams with an overburden of dirt, rock, and debris, and hardened them into the flint-like quartz, schists, slates and granite found today in these auriferous areas. Placer mining, with its "easy pickings" which set the whole civilized world aflame with excitement seven decades ago has given place to the more difficult, but none the less facinating and emunerative quartz mining of today.

We have already mentioned many places in the Northern Mines famous for their rich yields, and we may now mention the no less productive Southern section, notable in quartz mining annals for the presence of the famous "Mother Lode."

While the average "lead" is traceable for only a few dozen feet, or a comparatively short distance, the Mother Lode of the Southern Mines is traceable on the surface for a distance of more than sixty miles. It is a series of parallel veins, varying in width from a few inches to thirty feet wide, and with its company all leads in places reaching the width of 100 feet. This most extraordinary metallic ferous vein in all the world is plainly traceable from Sutter's Creek to Mariposa, a distance of oved sixty miles. "It is," says Hittell, "usually a hard, white quartz rich in very fine particles of gold, as a rule invisable to the unassisted eye."

This phenomonal formation runs like an underground river, raises above the level of the sea usually from 1000 to 4000 feet and some 2500 feet from the summit of the mountain range. On the Mother Lode was opened up the mines about Sonora, and Columbia, both famous for the number and size of their nuggets. These towns were settled in early days under the leadership of a Reverend James Woods, of Philadelphia, or whose enterprising activities Wood's Creek was named.

Notwithstanding several independent states, as at Soulsbyville, 8 miles east of Sonora, whose rock was bluish-white and very rich, the Mother Lode deposit proved to be the richest gold-bearing stratum in the world.

South of Tuolumne, runs the Merced River at an elevation of 5000 feet, the lower course above the foothills skirted Las Mariposas, the famour Fremont Grant, 44,000 acres, forming one of the most valuable bodies of land belonging to a sinlge individual in the world.

This Grant due to the fame of the Pine Tee and Josephine mines, was manipulated so that it was swung around to include these mines as well as others in the rich gold-bearing hills of Mariposa county. This county, having only two streams, despite the fact produced more gold for the volume of its water, than any other county in the state.

At Penon Blanco, at Maxwell's Creek, on the Merced River, two men in two weeks took out $16,000.

The Pine Tree and Josephine mines, 13 miles northwest of Mariposa, lay on the famous Mother Lode and were fabulously rich.

It may be well said that prospects for the future lie primarily in those district whose past development has not been so great, and where sufficient mining has been carried on to show that values lie in the leads.

"This may well be said," remarks Mr. Hohr, one of the most famous British engineers who ever surveyed that county, "of Mariposa county where exceedingly fine values have been extracted, but where scarcity of water in the old mining days of placers forbade exploitation of the metalliferous area, which still lies waiting for the energy and ingenuity of man to be applied to richly repay his effort."

The Engineering and Mining Journal of September 18, 1926, says:

"A GOOD MINE, properly equipped, carefully managed, and with a goodly store of auriferous gravel or quartz developed IS ABOUT AS COMFORTABLE A BUSINESS AS CAN BE ENGAGED IN."

LAST CHINAMAN IS TAKEN AILING TO COUNTY HOSPITAL

CAMPTONVILLE, March 24—One by one the Celestial population of these mountains has been decreasing until recently only one Chinese remained as a part of the population—Ah Song, a helper at the Pendola ranch, one of the old timers of the once large yellow population. Sunday he was stricken with general old age breakdown and had to be removed to the Yuba County Hospital where he remains in a bad condition.

At one time this place had two Chinatowns, with around 500 Chinese residing therein. The business section consisted of a large hotel, jewelry store, two grocery stores, joss house. Great celebrations were held every Chinese New Year and the school children would lose no time in going to Chinatown from school, enjoying the free candy, firecrackers and chicken dinners, the memory of which still lingers in the minds of some of our prominent citizens.

The Chinese population is missed for in many ravines were the scatteed China cabins where some aged Celestial was taking his living from the yellow dust in the bed of the creek. They played their part in the pioneer history of California, and their passing is regretted.

STATE MINING NEWS

SISKIYOU COUNTY

Discovery of tungsten is reported in the vicinity of Oak Bar with a ledge showing of ten to fifteen inches. Tungsten has previously been found in the Salmon mountains of Siskiyou but not in comercial quantities.

G. W. Vosburg and Charles Humphreys of Mill creek are installing a mill at their property. They report a five foot ledge showing assays around $12 a ton. An electric plant is being installed.

All of the hydraulic mines on the South and East forks of the Salmon river are reported working.

MARIPOSA COUNTY

What is described as the largest strike made in Mariposa county in a number of years, was made in the Buena Vista mine on Saxon creek which is being developed by a company headed by Miss Belle McCord Roberts, Long Beach newspaper publiser. The strike was made in the face of a drift being run to tap a known ore shoot and at the point of strike, there are four feet of ore on the hanging wall said to carry high grade values. The development work is in charge of D. R. Jones.

A 10 stamp mill is being installed at the Diltz mine on Sherlock creek by Ahart, Snow and Morton. This property is near the Buena Vista. There is said to be a four foot vein of good ore.

AMADOR COUNTY

F. H. Ridge of Stockton has withdrawn his connection with the Moore Mining Company operating in the Jackson district and his interests have been taken over by Finley Cook, secretary of the company. It is proposed to raise funds by stock sales to prosecute development work on the South Jackson and Kennedy-Argonaut veins. R. J. Duncan of Jackson has been appointed superintendent and W. E. Joy continues as foreman.

The Spag Mining Company has been authorized by the state corporation commissioner to sell 50,000 shares of stock to finance development of its property in the Pine Grove district. A hoist, air compressor and drills are to be installed.

SHASTA COUNTY

Ore found at the grass roots near Redding is said to be running high in value. A shaft has been sunk 50 feet and the values persist at that depth. Ed Martin of Montgomery creek is a part owner in the property.

EL DORADO COUNTY

The mill and headframe at the Pyramid mine near Rescue had a narrow escape from being burned recently when a gasoline blow torch ignited oil about the compressor engine. Quickness on the part of superintendt and crew saved the day.

CALAVERAS COUNTY

A crew is employed at the Indian Creek mine near Esmeralda. Two tunnels are being run, one being in 700 feet and the other 500. An air compressor has been installed and air dills are being used. Good milling ore is being stored on the dump. George S. Walker of San Francisco is president of the company.

AUBURN COWS REPORTED TO HAVE GOLDEN TEETH

A dispatch from Salem, Oregon states that a butcher killed eight out of a bunch of Idaho cattle and he found all of their teeth showing a gilded covering. The teeth were taken to a jeweler who pronounced the substance pure gold. No wonde beef is high!

The Salem butcher has nothing on Al Swinburn of Auburn. At the Waddle Market in lower town. there are on exhibition half a dozen cattle teeth, all with a heavy covering of gold. The teeth were taken from cattle that had been on the Waddle slaughter house range, south of town for several months last summer. Feed was short and Al says that the cattle in their anxiety to get a little grass, went clear down to the grass roots. (Placer Herald.)

IT LOOKS EASY

An ambitious Nevada City boy dropped in a few days ago to announce that he wants to break into the newspaper game, and ask if we would please tell him how to make a success of it. Believing a lot of people would be interested in the answer we are going to print it, just to show that we are not stingy with advice.

You can run a newspaper easily and happily if you can listen with a smile to tiresome thing s youv'e heard before; if you can refuse to do what three or four people want you to do without making them mad; if you can write in a way to make people laugh when they feel like swearing; if you can keep silent when you feel like you'll bust if you don't talk, if you can refuse a woman's request for a lot of free space for her pet aid society without making the whole congregation sore; if you can explain a typographical erro without using up more than two or three hour's time; if you can explain why Mrs. Smith's poem on "Spring Flowers" did not get into the paper; if you can take a four-line item and spread it to a whole column when your best advertiser threatens to quit if you don't; if you have a nose for news and an itch for writing and have trained yourself not to get drowsy when called to work about 18 hours out of every 24;if you can make your subscribers understand that paper and ink dealers insist on being paid for their product; if you can go to church on Sunday and see a man drop a dollar bill in the contribution box when he is nine years back on his subscription—and yet not begrudge that dollar to the Lord—if you can do these things you ought to get by in the newspaper game.

There was one thing about the longer courtships of old times. It resulted in longer marriage.

"I've never yet been able to figure out," declares George Schafer, "why a good looking girl will insist on wearing a hat that covers her face."

The Mexican census of 1921 has just been completed and it shows enough people left down there for several more revolutions.

A man should be more concerned about what he decends to than what he descends from.

What has become of the old-fashioned Nevada City husband who used to get "bawled out" for turning up the wick so high that it smoked the lamp chimney?

"Give old Mother Eve credit for one thing," said a Grass Valley man, "when Adam got in from work every evening she din't kiss him to get a smell of his breath to see if he had been eating apples again."

NEVADA COUNTY NEW HEALTH HOME

"Doc" and Mrs. W. H. McCoy, Specialists in Chronic and Neurotic Cases, Have Opened Modernly Equipped Rest Home at 131 Race Street, Grass Valley Recently

Nevada County is now extremely fortunate to boast a new Health Home where chronic and neurotic cases can be expertly handled. "Doc" and Mrs. W. H. McCoy have opened up at 131 Race Street in Grass Valley a modernly equipped rest home and their many friends over the state have been congratulating them on picking out a location where the piney atmosphere is so beneficial.

Specializing in eliminative sweat baths which are particularly effective in treating rheumatism, toxemia, neurasthenia and paralytic cases, this institution promises to fill a long felt need in this county. Manual treatments, massaging, therapeutic lamps combined with proper dieting are outstanding features of the McCoy method of treating patients and as they are essential food specialists, their cures have been nothing short of marvelous in a number of cases Electric light cabinets are used. The present home is crowded to handle the large amount of business which is being offered and it is planned to erect shortly a number of outdoo sleeping cabins and a solarium on the premises.

"Doc" McCoy is a graduate of Carlsbad, Germany, and spent three years in the health resorts of Germany and has a wide experience in the health resorts of this country. Mrs. Jessie L. McCoy proves an expert assistant in the handling of the cases from her long practice. The Nugget is happy to recommend their institution to its readers.

In an interview "Doc" McCoy stated:

We'd like to have it understood that our place is not a hospital, or sanitarium, that we do not practice medicine, but medical gymnatics, passive and corrective exercises, internal and external baths, the use of solar energy, and mental, physical and physico-logical rest to bring the body to normal and keep it there.

The leading physicians of the country—the world, in fact— use these methods as an adjunct to their medical practice, as in infantile paralysis, neurasthenia, neuritis, and rheumatism.

The effect of the electric cabinet, or turkish bath, in imitation of nature's way to unload thru the skin wastes that can find they way thru this channel alone, is well known by all practitioners of whatever school, and is especially valuable in rheumatism and toxemia.

We are more concerned about health, rather than disease, and believe that we have evolved a system—a health system— if you plaese, that, if followed closely, will keep anyone fit.

This belief, too, is shared by hundreds of satisfied clients, as well as the leading physicians of Sacramento, our location for the last five years.

There is no better climate to be found in California than this region, and the altitude, just right, has proven to be downright miraculous in asthma and bronchitics.

And that is the reason why we are here. It is a good place for the sick to come to.

DO YOU KNOW?

That your home-town paper gives away every week, more space than it gets paid for?

That it is the medium thru which most of the publicity of the town's interests, commercial and social, are given to the outside, as well a bringing the people of the community in closer touch with each other, thereby, making it a pleasanter place to live in. Were you ever away from home and got the home-town paper? Did you ever enjoy reading every line in it? About the happenings at home? Did it appear like a letter from home, about what this fellow did or where that lady went, who came to town and what their business is an so on?

All these are pleasant to you, you and the editor as well, for that's what makes a good paper; but there is one thing that is absolutely necessary for the maintainance of the home-town paper, and that is loyal support. Give it your business in its line. It boosts for you, criticises buying away from home, and at the same time, some are sending to mail-order houses for cheap stationery in order to save a few cents, while in reality they do not save as the stuff you get is of cheap trashy quality they would not accept from their home-town printing plant.

We can print anything that is put on paper. Give us your printing, we can do it and will appreciate it.—Linciln News-Messenger.
